

Reasons for Travel among the Reported Responses

Three-quarters of intermodal trips involving the use of light individual mobility have the main purpose of a home-to-work or home-to-study commute.

These commutes represent 67% of the responses concerning conventional bicycles, compared to 92% for electric scooters used for personal purposes. On the contrary, tourism-related reasons make up 30% of the responses for the first mode of transportation, compared to 8% for the second device.