

Reading Guide

The cumulative distributions of distances traveled for access and egress highlight a high concentration of trips across all transfer modes, with most not exceeding 3 kilometers in length. The applied decay functions (cumulative Gaussian function) indicate a hierarchical reach of travel modes, ranging from conventional bicycles, through electric scooters and folding bikes, to combined walking.